Hi Jennifer...

Please see my changes below. Having input is a good idea, but having approval means voting in some manner, which has already been done.

“We would like to have a few minutes on the agenda to update the HOA board about our interest in creating a strategic planning process that ideally would provide a conduit for our residents to have input and approval of the strategic plans. We believe that although the HOA and the Club have been established as two separate legal entities we serve the same community. We feel that it would be of great benefit to have our two organizations work together to engage the UP community in the strategic planning process.

Dear Strategic Planning Committee,

Following up from yesterday’s meeting, Jim Freedman has prepared a draft for communication with the UPCA Board. Please review the following and send any feedback to me directly for discussion at the next Strategic Planning Committee meeting on 12/10.

Please send any comments or revisions to me only.

Best,

Jennifer

Hi Jennifer,

At yesterday's Strategic Planning Committee meeting, John agreed to posting information on how the RD/Community are organized and work together. We agreed the posting needed an inviting title. These are my thoughts:

Be In the Know!
Ever Wondered?

Also think the poster should have contact information if someone has questions.

Appreciate your help.
